

Tired, Fretful, Thirsty Children

need the same remedy as grown up people. The latter find refreshment and invigoration in but they often forget the little ones. Soda water is much better than plain water to quench thirst, and it is an excellent agent to stimulate the stomach and promote digestion. The medical books say this and we merely quote what they say.

Then our soda water just exactly suits the children's taste.

Try our Prickly Heat remedy. It excels all others.

MR. NEWPORT BETTER. — Word has been received from Los Angeles that P. C. Newport, who has been very sick, is better.

A NEW ARRIVAL. — A daughter was born to Mrs. Joseph A. Day early yesterday morning. Mother and babe are doing well.

THE NEW PAPER. — The "Alianza Hispana Americana," a Mexican journal, edited by R. Silva A. will make its first appearance this evening.

CATTLE AND HOGS. — A special left for Los Angeles yesterday with two cars of cattle shipped by Jake Miller and two cars of hogs sent by H. C. Slosser.

A RAPID RECOVERY. — Harry Clusky, whose misfortunes were recorded in yesterday's issue, is rapidly mending and was able to be on the street again yesterday.

WANT MORE MEN. — The Arizona Water company still wants men and scrapers to work at the joint head. The work of repairing the dam will commence today.

SALE OF THE BONANZA. — The sale of the old Harqua Hala mines will be made at Yuma today. Various estimates have been made as to the price which will be paid, but the range is so great that it is difficult to make a reliable estimate.

UNION SERVICES. — There was a good attendance at the union service last evening. Rev. A. V. Hurlin of the mission preached an able sermon on "The Religion of Sacrifice." The music was under the direction of Dr. Norton, with Miss Alsop as accompanist.

A PROMOTION. — William Kirkland, who has been in the employ of Ezra W. Trayer's hardware store, received word yesterday that a good position was open for him with Zeckendorf & Co. at Tucson. This proposition was unsolicited, but none the less welcome.

BUT THE HORSE RETURNED. — A man named Wilson came in from the country on Saturday night and tied his horse near the court house. He had a revolver which he put in a saddle bag. A fire alarm was sounded and he started to locate the fire. On his return he discovered that his horse was gone. Yesterday the horse came to his ranch, but minus its saddle and pistol.

AT THE POSTAL OFFICE. — Lew Waldin, who has been spending a month's vacation with his parents in Nebraska, is expected to return this morning or tomorrow. Mr. Waldin is the manager of the Phoenix telegraph here. In his absence his position has been filled by William Solomon. Mr. Solomon in turn will take his vacation of a month at Los Angeles, his former home.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION. — The territorial board of equalization will hold a session today at which Mr. Michael Ohl, who was recently appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Captain Cutler, will enter upon his duties. The matter of finally adjusting railroad valuations will probably be attended to by the board. Mr. Fredericks and Mr. Ohl, the out of town members, arrived in the city.

BACK IN THE POSTAL SERVICE. — Norman Orme, who was for some years an employee of the Phoenix post office and who went to the Sandwich Islands seeking recovery from a well-nigh fatal wound received while in Cuba with the Rough Riders, is reported as rapidly regaining his health. He has secured an appointment in the Honolulu postoffice and his previous experience will doubtless make him an efficient and valuable servant of the department. His many friends here will be pleased to learn of his good fortune.

A CIGAR, TOO. — Clothes may be bought in Phoenix as cheaply or cheaper than at any place in the west. This was exemplified the other day by a sale made in one of the stores to a farmer. He bought a complete outfit for $1.15. This seems unreasonable, but the purchase could easily be duplicated. The appearance of the man after he had put on his new clothes would not commend him for a position in a bank, but he was suitably attired for his work. His shoes with no less a great length of time, but otherwise he is well equipped. His cheapest garment was his hat. After he had made all the rest of his purchases he paid 5 cents for a hat and a cigar was thrown in.

LIKES PHOENIX BETTER. — A letter was received yesterday from Harry Cresswell at Chicago, who it was feared, had met with an accident. He said that his reason for not writing to his friends was that he was having a good time and had not thought of it. Mr. Cresswell lived in Chicago before coming here. He says he does not like the place as well now since he has been in Phoenix. He writes that the people of Chicago are interested in Phoenix. Articles appear in the papers frequently regarding Arizona, but there is seldom any reference to Phoenix, although such articles would be in greatest demand. Mr. Cresswell says he will return to this place.

WAS NON COMMUNICATIVE. — A colored woman caused her own arrest yesterday. She was noticed by Officer Hale and William Doherty riding on a sidewalk in the northern part of town. The two men were riding wheels and they caught up with her. Officer Hale stopped her and was going to tell her that if he caught her riding on a sidewalk again he would be compelled to make an arrest. "I ain't got no $3 to pay," she said before the officer finished talking, and she started off on the run. Mr. Doherty caught up with her. "Come here," he said, "I want to talk to you." "You can't talk to me," she replied. "Mrs. Blank, the woman I works for, says for me not to talk to any one."

SURPRISE IN STORE. — George Green, formerly a reporter on the Denver Republican, arrived yesterday en route to San Francisco. Mr. Green tells an incident which occurred in Denver, but which was never published. A young lawyer opened an office there and soon made friends with a police officer. The officer said several cases in the police court, but contrary to the custom he had never asked for a share of the money made. He got a big case one day and made a proposition to the lawyer. A hotel criminal had been captured and the officer said he had about $3,000. Besides him were a number of detectives who wanted a share of the money if the case was thrown to the young man. The lawyer refused the case, saying he would rather go on than accept such a case. The policeman got another lawyer who agreed to the plans. It was arranged that the criminal should be released on straw bonds. He made his escape, but the lawyer and the other persons got the money. The incident would not be so singular except that the money was counterfeit.

HANDY WITH A SHOTGUN. — Yesterday afternoon Joe Gladue layed a shotgun on his father and prepared to lay the plot for another sensational incident in the local criminal cases. The weapon seemed to be intended to simply do the work of a temporary injunction, a document Joe did not have about his person at the time, rather than that of an avenging angel. It answered the purpose, as the father Gladue peached up some kind of a truth that held long enough for him to get to the office of Justice G. D. Gray, when a warrant for Joe's arrest was sworn out. The cause of the trouble was not clearly learned, but it is said that the young man had been in a quarrel with a woman, and was for the purpose of protecting his mother from the abuse of his father. Altogether the cause of the Gladue family does not run smoothly on the side of life and opinions differ as to the real fountain of trouble, but it is surmised that the example of the head of the family has not been such as to inspire his offspring with any surplus of filial respect. Joe and his sister have both achieved notoriety heretofore and though it was not a kind to be proud of their environment at home has been considered in the judgment of the public, as a mitigating circumstance.

NAUGHTY BOYS AND GIRLS. — "Floasie" and "Georgie" are two very pretty names, suggestive of poetry, romance and dime novels, but there are two female characters in this city who are masquerading under the above aliases from whom the romance and poetry of life has been pretty thoroughly eradicated by a career of sin and shame. Their homes, if there are to be said to have any, are east of Seventh street and South of Jackson and front on the first named thoroughfare. Ever and anon they have appeared in police court to answer to all sorts of misdemeanor charges and at times they have been fined $100 for committing a robbery. But while they are little for romance themselves they have a recherche make-up that attracts mamma's boys who early in life want to become boys. The girls above mentioned got a couple of young men in town who are still in their teens and therefore measurably irresponsible. They promiscuously and down Washington and Center streets and across the city hall plaza during the concert until Officer Dowell spotted them, when they glided into the Delmonico restaurant. He divined their intention and when they reached the back door he was there to meet them and lead them to the city jail. The women were released on a cash bond and the boys found a friend who went their head, meanwhile requesting that no publicity be given their names on account of family connections. What they may be a little short on character they still maintain a pretty fair grip on their reputations and their request was therefore granted. Ten minutes after their liberation they were again seen in the companionship of their enamored ones.

THE YAQUI WAR

Being Unreasonably Magnified by Press Correspondents.

The following from the Oasis regarding the Yaqui war is reassuring and in justice to the republic of Mexico should be given equal publicity with some of the sensational reports that have been printed:

"Col. Juan Fenochio, commanding the Third zone of la Gendarmeria Fiscal, who is well posted upon the policy toward the Yaquis adapted by General Berriozabal, the Mexican minister of war, with whom have joined Messrs. P. Sandoval & Co. and other gentlemen prominent in business and official circles in Sonora, has requested that publicity be given a denial of the sensational reports about the Yaqui war which are being sent out to the press of the United States from various quarters."

"The principal offender in this particular is a correspondent at Casas Grandes, in the state of Chihuahua, who daily sends to the Chicago Tribune columns of stuff which is all purely fictitious of a brilliant imagination. When it is stated that it is over four hundred miles by the routes usually traveled, across almost impassable mountains, between the scene of the Yaqui trouble and Casas Grandes, while it is only a little over three hundred miles between Nogales and the seat of war, and two hundred miles of that distance is by rail, it will be understood that correct information would travel faster by the Nogales route than by that to Casas Grandes. The Chicago Tribune and press of the country are being imposed upon by a fakir at Casas Grandes who is padding out his space to 'make a big thing' when the monthly pay day comes around."

"Col. Fenochio authorized the statement that the theater of war is confined to a small area in a remote corner of the state of Sonora; that the Yaquis are concentrating their forces, the Mexican government is moving a large number of troops, well armed and supplied with munitions of war to completely surround them and finish them where they are making a stand. Troops are being posted in strong force at all the outlets from the region and when the general break occurs, none of the belligerent Yaquis will get out of the region which is the scene of the trouble. In comparison with the rest of the state that region is a mere bagatelle, including not to exceed one hundred and fifty square miles, while the area of the state exceeds two hundred thousand square miles. Outside of the limited area noted traveling for business or pleasure is as safe in the state of Sonora as ever. The faked reports from Casas Grandes and elsewhere are conveying false impressions, scaring away intending visitors and investors and doing great harm."

A POOR WHALING SEASON.

Port Townsend, Wash., Aug. 13.—Advice from the Arctic whaling fleet brought here today by the schooner J. M. Coleman, twenty-seven days from Port Lawrence, are not encouraging. The season has been a complete failure. The captains of the whalers Jeanette, Karluk and Alexander report that it is the worst during the past twenty years.

SNAKE AROUND THE STOVEPIPE.

Lighted the Fire Before She Saw It, and Then There Was a Battle.

Flemington, N. J., Aug. 13.—Just after Mrs. Howell Herder of Wersville, had started a fire in the range in her wash-house yesterday, she noticed a large black snake coiled about the pipe on the stove. The snake showed fight when the range began to smoke

Mrs. Herder stood guard at the door to prevent the reptile escaping and her husband attacked it with a club. After a hard fought battle he succeeded in killing it. The snake measured five feet two inches in length.
